Subject: Chat with Clark Robinson me: hi, Clark. Will you be able to attend tomorrow night's meeting? otherwise, I'll get you a transcript me: both Mano and Robert Green and his assistant will be attending Clark: At this point I have another meeting that I am supposed to attend but I do not know whether anyone else will show up (it is to discuss a special assessment for building repairs which some want to postpone ($$) so I don't know for sure at this point, so a transcript would be good idea me: okay, I'll make sure that one is taken down then and share it as a Google doc afterwards Clark: ok, actually that would be a good thing to do for all meetings that have an identifiable agenda, since I think IRC records everything, doesnt it?

me: I believe so, but I'll have to check with Sundeep or someone on how to extract info Clark: unrelated -- you have been doing wonderful stuff lately on League of OG, so whatever you are taking (or getting), it is good for you Clark: also unrelated -- the Wynne LeGrow campaign story in to a large extent LeGrow's own words would make a great article of the length of the things that Hastings, Taibbi or Tim Dickinson publish in Rolling Stone me: I'm not entirely sure how to proceed with LeGrow as he's obviously a partisan and I'm not entirely happy with the way they tied their own hands behind their backs against Forbes against my advice me: so we're going to have to think very carefully on how to proceed with him, as there's certainly opportunity here me: although we really don't have any lack of opportunity as it is me: oh, also me: Sundeep has built our wiki me: http://projectpm.thepdl.co.cc/index.php/Main_Page me: login info
me: ProjectPM
me: C62fGi0NtV me: also, there's one very important thing you could help me with me: I'm supposed to write this two-page book proposal for what was previously known as Hot, Fat, and Clouded me: and I'm having writer's block me: to the extent that you can think of anything I've written that might incorporate well into a single-page summary overview of the book, let me know Clark: I guess I see legrow's story as somewhat more about Forbes and the prevailing culture forbes surfs on in a red state and Legrow as a kind of decent everyman who encounters it me: that's not a bad idea me: at any rate, I'm swamped me: still have to get this book taken care of (and re-edited) and Green still wants me to do the film treatment Clark: OK, I still have HFC, links to the VF, HuffPO and some other articles about/from it, so I will browse for good overview statements me: great, thanks

Clark: one or two chapters in HFC may benefit from some updating since a couple of the subjects more recently demonstrated proof of your assessments of them , peretz and RS McCain, for instance, probably some others that i have not been following closely, too
